Launch Financial Investigations from Relativity aiR

How the Sedra Solutions + Relativity aiR integration helps you move from document review to financial investigations.

eDiscovery teams have mastered querying documents with AI, but the financial data at the heart of fraud, embezzlement, money laundering, bankruptcy, and liquidation cases often lives outside the review platform.

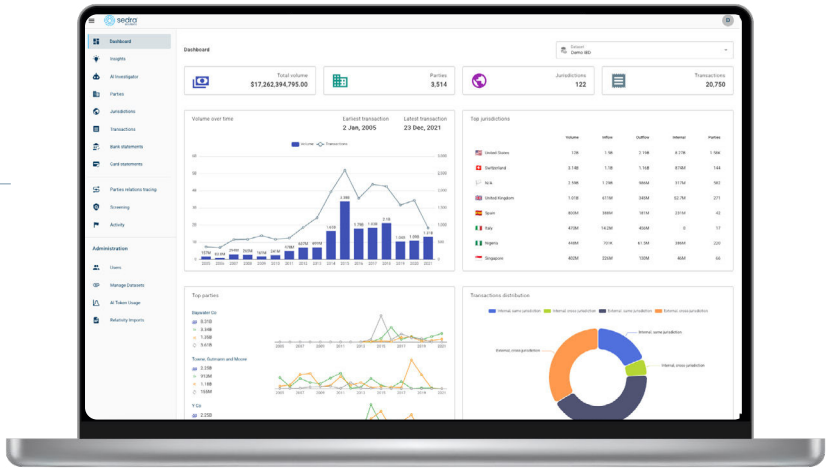

With Sedra Solutions' integration for Relativity aiR, your team can move seamlessly from reviewing case documents to investigating the transactions, assets, entities, and financial relationships behind them.

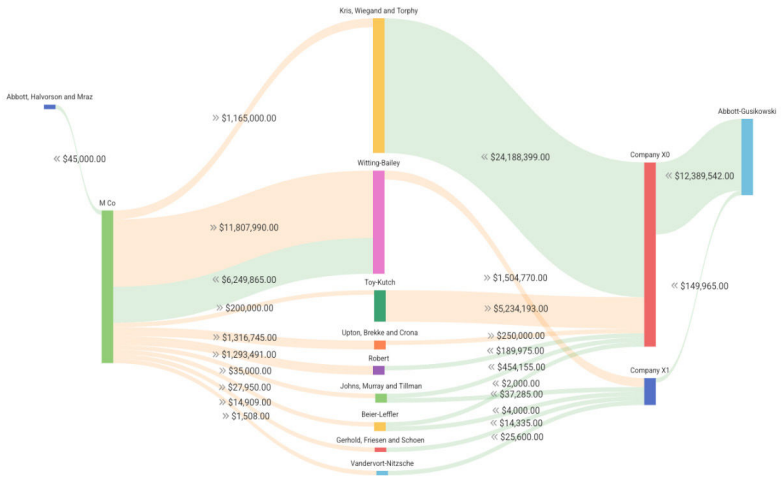

Case data from Relativity aiR becomes investigative context in Sedra — helping you trace funds, detect hidden assets, identify anomalies, uncover undisclosed connections, and pursue new lines of inquiry.

KEY FEATURES

Case Overview at a Glance

The dashboard provides an overview of your investigation and immediately surfaces insights you can click into for deeper analysis.

Spot Hidden Connections Between Parties

The Parties Relations Tracing tool lets you view relationships, see how parties are connected through intermediaries, and trace the flow of money.

AI Investigator

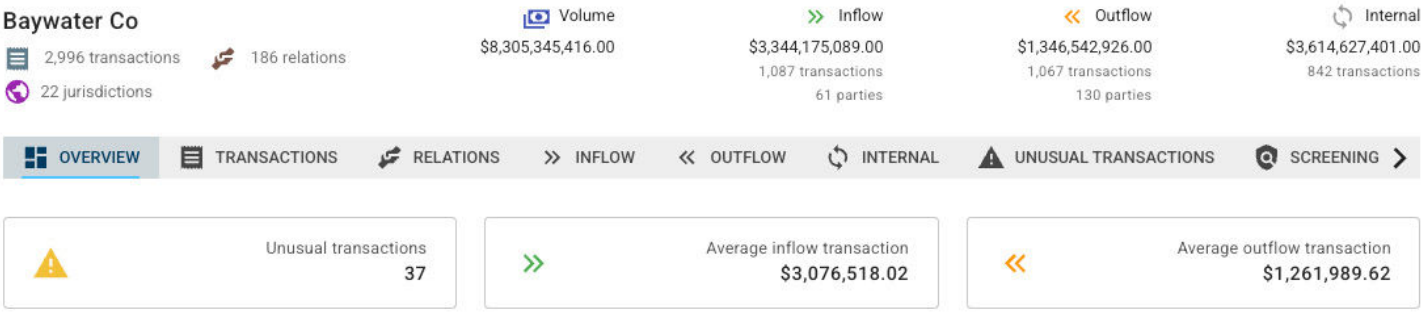

Have a conversation with your data — ask high-level questions or enter a complex, case-specific prompt. Using Relativity aiR case data for context, the AI Investigator analyzes vast financial data sets and returns an investigative roadmap, executive summary, and all the details needed to work the case.

Ingest Data Sets with Ease

Financial investigators used to spend weeks or months cleaning, standardizing, and importing data before analysis could begin. Sedra's AI-powered data pipeline automates this process over 90% faster than traditional methods, even across different currencies, formats, and languages.

Automatically Flag Unusual Transactions

Sedra's advanced algorithms spot patterns that even the most experienced investigators would easily miss, flagging unusual transactions for review. Drill down into the transactions and parties you want to investigate, and even see the source data — all in the same platform.

Sophisticated tools for deep-dive investigations.
